

The ACID IP Databank

The ACID Design Data Bank provides members with independent evidence of the date of their design's creation. This evidence begins from the date the design is received by ACID. Evidence of this kind may become important when attempting to establish the date that a design was created, for example, if it is challenged in court. It should be noted that the ACID Design Data bank gives no additional legal rights to those that may already exist.

Note: Lodging copies of designs with ACID is different to officially registering designs with the UK IPO/EU IPO, which will give you additional rights.
